Video Activity

(RA is walking down hallway and the student has door open.)

(RA stops to say hello.)

RA: Oh hey, Sam. What's up?

(RA stops in doorway)

Student: Not much. How are you?

RA: You know, pretty good. Co-op's been a little hectic but I really love what I'm doing. How about you? Didn't you have a paper due?

Student: I did and it went really well actually. Thanks for remembering. Since you're already here do you have a second to talk about something?

RA: Yeah. Do you want to talk here or in the RA office or somewhere else?

Student: Here is fine.

RA: Can I come in?

Student: Yeah.

RA: And do you want the door open or closed?

Student: Maybe closed actually.

(closes door)

RA: So what's up?

Student: Do you know Serena who lives on the third floor?

RA: Yeah, what's up?

Student: It's kind of a long story but she's texting me a lot and it's been getting really weird. Basically we run into each other a lot. Obviously, we're in the same building and we would always stop and chat a little bit. And it seems like maybe there was something there, like we were interested in each other. So I gave her my number and it turns out that she texts a lot. Like I text a lot, but this is way more than normal. And some of the stuff that she's been texting has gotten really weird, like sexual. We haven't even been on a date before. I just don't really know what to do so I started to answer really short answers or just not respond. But in the last few days it’s actually gotten worse and she keeps sending me texts like this…

(RA and student scroll through)

RA: What might you say here?

Student: Okay that’s fine. They’re not gonna go like talk to Serena, right?

RA: No, so I will call Bridget and she’ll come straight up here and then we can talk about what options or next steps to take.

RA: Would you rather I make the phone call with you here with me or would you rather I step outside to make the call?

Student: What are you going to tell her?

RA: What might you say here?
